

unILINK

October 24, 2019

Unifor's campaign to prevent a conservative government succeeds as minority Liberal government provides an opportunity for progressive partnerships. Tentative agreement reached with six Saskatchewan Crown Corporations, ending 17-day strike. Plus, Unifor joins the campaign to build a new SickKids hospital to save lives, find new cures and provide world-class care to vulnerable patients.

 WHAT'S HOT

 TAKE ACTION

Watch what happened when locked-out SaskTel workers asked customers to go elsewhere, the day before the tentative agreement was reached.

READ MORE

Unifor members' volunteering makes the difference for progressive candidates on election day.

READ MORE

IN THE NEWS

The election of a Liberal minority government, with the NDP and the Bloc Quebecois holding the balance of power gives workers a strong voice in Parliament. Workers can build power and push the minority government to invest in public service and a more just and equitable future.

READ MORE

Unifor bargaining committees at six Crown corporations in Saskatchewan reached a tentative agreement on the weekend, ending the largest strike since Unifor was founded.

READ MORE

Bell real talk campaign meetings across Quebec lay the groundwork for a renewed year of activism.

READ MORE

Unifor is helping to support the rise of a new SickKids Hospital that will transform health care treatment for children.

READ MORE

BARGAINING UPDATES

New tentative agreement at Barn (Metro) locations in Ontario centers wage equality, role classifications, and improved scheduling with a new afternoon shift.

READ MORE

Newfoundland Dominion (Loblaws) workers discuss the need for securing good jobs and fair wages during member meetings in preparation for upcoming collective agreement negotiations.

READ MORE

IN CASE YOU MISSED IT

National President Jerry Dias calls on the new federal government to work with progressive voices on key legislation, including climate change, affordability, pharmacare and childcare.

READ MORE

RESOURCES

We're a month away from the next Unifor B.C. Regional Council, taking place in Whistler, BC November 22-24. The deadline to register is Monday November 4 so act now.

READ MORE

Unifor