

March 25, 2020

Unifor stands up for healthcare workers as Ontario hands down its budget, Unifor welcomes new members, takes action to fight for racism justice, demands legislation to secure broadcasting jobs, lobbies MLAs in BC, plus, register now for essential workers webinar and read about the recent racial justice webinar.

 WHAT'S HOT

 TAKE ACTION

Coming together just days after a racist attack in Atlanta, participants in a recent cross border webinar on racial justice reflected on the history of racism and what must be done going forward.

READ MORE

Register now for the “Always Essential: Frontline Workers Across Borders” webinar, March 30, 6 pm ET and hear from frontline workers in Canada, the United States and Mexico on how to improve the working conditions across borders.

READ MORE

IN THE NEWS

Healthcare workers, who have borne the worst of pandemic risks in the last year, surrounded Queen's Park in a drive-by action with a clear message: Respect Us. Protect Us. Pay Us.

READ MORE

Unifor welcomes new members from across the country as aviation, long-term care and grocery

Finance Minister Peter Bethlenfalvy's 2021 provincial budget fails to address Ontario's crisis in long-term care, and leaves questions warehouse workers vote to join.

READ MORE

The report published by the commission investigating the RCMP officers who investigated the Colten Boushie murder reveal discrimination and destruction of evidence.

READ MORE

about the direction and strength of the province's economic recovery.

READ MORE

The federal government must take action to secure the future of broadcast journalism across Canada, Unifor tells the federal Standing Committee on Canadian Heritage.

READ MORE

Unifor took its campaign for workers' rights directly to provincial government legislators during an intensive online lobby session this week in British Columbia.

READ MORE

ValueWater
WorldWaterDay2021
unifor.org/wwd2021

On the United Nations' World Water Day Unifor is renewing its call to guarantee safe drinking water for Indigenous communities across the country.

READ MORE

Unifor's Bell Craft bargaining committee began conciliation with the company this past week.

READ MORE

IN CASE YOU MISSED IT

Watch Unifor Assistant to the President Katha Fortier stand up for the needs of Canadian broadcasting at the federal Standing Committee on Canadian Heritage.

WATCH HERE

RESOURCES

Get the latest information on the federal government's Canada Emergency Wage Subsidy and download the updated Unifor factsheet on the program.

READ MORE